Priorities
Increase access to health services for key populations

Wake Up and Support Others (WASO) is an NGO that acts to guide and support access to friendly health services. The organisation primarily focuses on key and vulnerable populations' rights to access health services. Initially, the organisation started operations as a Community Based Organisation in 2009 and thereafter was registered in 2015 as an NGO. WASO is headquartered in Dar es Salaam with a branch in Tunduma, Mbeya.

The organisation's commitment is to promote, support and advocate for dignity and the rights to access health services for all human beings irrespective of gender, age and or sexual orientation. The main target groups for the advocacy include key and vulnerable populations (KVPs) so as to have all forms of stigma and discrimination eliminated.

Summary from Assessors

WASO implements projects that address a community need and involves peer educators in the planning process. There is a strong professional team in place, which is recruited through a competitive process and works on a full time basis. It enjoys a good reputation with its beneficiaries and external stakeholders and has strong internal controls in place. That said, WASO falls short in its fundraising strategy and needs technical support in how to better mobilise resources.
